Problem Identification

Sumter County is located in west central Florida, north of Tampa, and west of Orlando. The County is largely rural with Bushnell (the county seat), Wildwood, Center Hill, Coleman, Webster, Lake Panasoffkee, Sumterville and the fast encroachment of The Villages serving as the areas of population concentration. The county is 561 sq. miles in size, with a population of approximately 85,000. There are three major roadways, Interstate 75, the Florida's Turnpike, and US Highway 301 providing access to Sumter County. In addition, there are a number of heavily traveled highways both within and near the county borders. These roadways serve as relatively easy connections to many other thoroughfares which provide many opportunities for the importation and sale of illegal drugs. The rural nature of Sumter County and the location of the county provides easy access to the gulf coast as well as new expanding areas of development have increased the availability of drugs, such as marijuana, cocaine, and methamphetamine. These factors provide many opportunities for drug trafficking, manufacture, transportation, and eventual, sale of drugs within

Sumter County. This was the original problem to be solved with grant funding and still continues to be a problem that the Drug Task Force works to eliminate. With the significant population growth that occurs in the county there has been a continuous rise not only in drug crimes, but also in related burglaries, thefts, assaults, and other crimes. The population of Sumter County continues to increase dramatically due to retirees and workers moving in, with industry and commerce also growing correspondingly. This exponential growth will create more opportunities for drug trafficking and more problems for law enforcement as well as residents, if efforts to curb it are not continued. In addition, with drug funds being one of the primary mechanisms used to finance terrorist activities, the potential for money laundering and use of drug-related funds for these activities rises. With the relatively central and strategic location of Sumter County near to the coast, on many heavily traveled thoroughfares and immediately north of the Tampa metropolitan area, drug smuggling/importation is of great concern. Only with the assistance of JAG Program funding can the Sumter County Task Force continue to operate effectively. Because of this rapid growth in both population and crime, it is vitally important to continue with the work of the Drug Task Force. The Task Force was instituted by the Sumter County Sheriff's Office, with the cooperation and membership of the police departments within the county. Due to the number of small cities within the county this means that local police departments have significantly less manpower available to provide officers who can work full time on the Task Force, as compared to larger cities in other counties. Therefore, the Sumter County Sheriff's Office has provided the full time staff for the Task Force, while the smaller police departments contribute officers on a part time and on an asneeded basis. The State Attorneys Office, FDLE, DEA, and other agencies are also actively involved in investigations at various times, depending on need. The Sumter County Drug Task

Section 2: Project Overview

Force is comprised of the Sheriff's Office, the five local police departments in the county and the State Attorney's Office. The Task Force has an official agreement, in accordance with program requirements, and is organized with the Chief Executive Officer (or representative) of each agency serving on the Task Force Board. This Board meets periodically to discuss local problems and make recommendations involving current and potential Task Force activities. The Sumter County Sheriff's Office currently has five full time sworn employees working together on the Drug Task Force. Sumter County Task Force efforts are vital to curbing drug trafficking, not only in Sumter County, but also Florida.

Project Summary (Scope of Work)

Since inception, the main focus of the Sumter County Drug Task Force has traditionally been to identify mid and upper level drug traffickers. In Sumter County this has been extremely difficult due to the rural nature and tight knit drug network within the area. Task Force members have needed, out of necessity, to develop special operational methods for the county, therefore they frequently use street level investigative connections to lead to the mid to upper level manufacturers, importers, sellers, etc. Through several recent investigations the Task Force was successful in infiltrating area networks, leading to the arrest of a number of mid and upper level drug dealers involved in cocaine, marijuana and methamphetamine importation and sales. With the rural nature and size of the county, it is often necessary to bring in undercover officers from surrounding counties (OPS workers) to initiate narcotics transactions, due to the fact that dealers in the area quickly come to recognize and know the local officers. Undercover operatives gather important intelligence to be included in the drug database. Confidential Informants also provide information for Task Force Members to use in investigations, frequently identifying investigative targets. The development of information on one individual, with careful analysis and processing, has provided links to the higher-level traffickers and dealers. Since the establishment of the Drug Task Force, many sellers have been arrested more than once, with a number of these eventually going to prison as habitual offenders. Some offenders have been taken to Federal Court, which has more stringent punishments. This means that mid to higher-level importers and traffickers must make special efforts to find new workers and Task Force investigators need to seek individuals who will pass the information to undercover operatives and help to establish case information for analysis and future use. Sumter County Task Force members and OPS workers conduct investigations using many varied investigative techniques. Buy-bust, reverse stings and drug-related activities lead to information about potential importers, manufacturers, dealers and networks. When information is carefully analyzed, it can provide new evidence to solve cases that seemed impossible in the past. Specialized equipment, such as miniature cameras and recording devices are necessary to film and record activities as they take place and provide documented evidence for prosecution. As undercover drug deals are made, warrants are obtained for arrests of the offenders and, at a set time, "drug sweeps" are conducted to serve the warrants throughout the county, with the assistance of local police officers to arrest individuals with outstanding warrants.

The population growth and the influx of many new transient workers significantly correlates with the rise in drug related crimes being committed. The Drug Task Force needs to continue operations to keep the established momentum necessary to compete with the rise in drug related crimes.
